Chrysanthemum Show

The Country Woman's Club has begun preparations for an entertainment to be given some time in the autumn, to be known as a "Chrysanthemum Show." The name is not to be considered as limiting the displays, as all kinds of flowers in bloom at that time will be exhibited.

Those who have planted chrysanthemums, dahlias, asters or other fall flowering plants, and who would be willing to exhibit them, are asked to give them special attention with that idea in view.

The committee in charge of arrangements has requested that anyone interested in the success and improvement of the Reading Room and Library, who will start any kind of potted plants, ferns, begonias, vines, etc., to be donated and sold at the Fair, will do so, and their efforts will be greatly appreciated.

The Club hopes that an interest will be taken, not only by its members, but by all flower growers and lovers of flowers.

Local and Personal

Fishing tackle at E. W. Preston's.

For Sand, Loam, or Gravel see Alexander, 48 Dillon Ave.

Vaughn Lloyd was one of the successful fishers in the Los Gatos Creek.

Miss Vera Cochran went to Vallejo Tuesday for a visit of several weeks.

Miss Myrtle Dunham has accepted a position in Hale's store in San Jose and entered upon her duties May 1st.

Louis Williams and Bert Benner went to Soquel and fished Monday and Tuesday, getting the limit both days.

G. S. Peterson and John Evans motored to Pescadero in the former's car Tuesday in quest of the finny tribe.

Mrs. E. E. Lanphear and sons returned Saturday evening from an extended visit with her parents at Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hyde were among the anglers Monday and brot home a big catch, of which ye editor's family enjoyed a generous mess.

Rev. G. E. Atkinson gave the illustrated talk on Harpoot, which he will present here Sunday evening, at Soquel Thursday night, and will repeat it at Santa Cruz tonight.

O. Strom, one of Campbell's most progressive and consistent boosters, who believes in improvements of a substantial nature, has begun the laying of cement walk along the west side of his property on Fourth street.

C. B. Miracle, "Dad" Sturtevant and Will Wilson did a bit of fishing on the Llagas Monday morning and creeled a nice string of trout. "Dad" broke the record with a 16-inch catch which proved a great fighter before landed.

The local Congregational church has observed Mother's Day ever since the idea started. This year, Children's Day will be united with Mother's Day, May 14. A fine programme is being prepared by the committee. The combined service, Sunday-school and morning church service, will commence at 10:30, Sunday week.

This week Tuesday and Wednesday the Santa Clara Association of Congregational churches meets at Santa Cruz. The local church is represented by Dr. Chas. N. Cooper, Mrs. Geo. E. Atkinson, Deacon Geo. Parso and Rev. G. E. Atkinson. Mrs. S. A. Moulton was unable to go, so Mr. Parso went as alternate delegate in her place. The party, accompanied by Mr. Sargent and Orrill Minnie Atkinson, motored over in Mr. Parso's new car.

The ladies of the Congregational church served supper Friday evening, that was well attended in view of the counter attractions. A business meeting was called in the evening at which the ladies voted to have the church renovated, varnishing, painting and papering, and Chas. Sutter began the work Monday. The church has been greatly in need of repairs for sometime, but the ladies have been bending their efforts toward paying pledges on the Manse fund, but since that is all provided for, they decided to undertake this new work.

Miss Delpha Wiesendanger delightfully entertained a few of her friends at a picnic luncheon at her home on Saratoga Avenue on Saturday, of last week. The luncheon was served under the majestic oaks which add so much to their already beautiful home. The afternoon was spent in taking snapshots of various groups and in music and dancing, after which the guests left declaring Delpha a most delightful and charming hostess. Those present were: Misses Florence Noddin, Pernilla Nelson, Grace Plock, Annie Marie Norman, Evelyn Rhode, Elsie and Nell Mann, Fannie Seymour, Thelma McCoy, Delpha, Alice and Mabel Wiesendanger.

Afternoon Party

The home of Mrs. G. S. Robson was the scene of a delightful afternoon party Friday, given in honor of Mrs. B. N. Wells. The house was lavishly decked with flowers, the fire-place being a bank of calla lilies, large jars of fox-gloves and gaillardia were artistically placed, and wall vases completed a charming effect. The decorating was done by Mrs. Warren Shelly.

Progressive whist was played, the changes being made after every hand, which added greatly to the sociability. In the final count, Mrs. C. T. Fawcett had the high score.

A dainty service of refreshments, in which the hostess was assisted by several of the ladies, completed a very plesant afternoon.

Ouch!

The Athletics journeyed to Los Gatos Sunday and were defeated by a score of 12-8. The game was full of errors on the part of both clubs, due partly to very poor grounds and partly to lack of team work. No features.

Congregational Church

"The Friendly Church just around the Corner."

Next Sunday morning the Pastor will speak on "Spiritual Supply Stations on the Voyage of Life," a sermon suggested by his cousin in the U. S. Navy in speaking of a ship's "Radius of Action." Talk to the boys and girls on "The Puddle and the Pool."

Sunday-school and C. E. as usual. President Raymond Cowles is leader of Endeavor meeting. Topic: "Consecration of Talents," also reception of new C. E. members. Beginning this Sunday, May 7, our society enjoys a C. E. contest with the society at Cupertino for the month of May.

At the 7:30 service, the Pastor will give a stereopticon evening on "Harpoot, Turkey: Its people, customs, and work." These slides are made from photos taken by Dr. H. H. Atkinson before his death. This county is right in the midst of the present Russo-Turkish war activities. The pictures and the talk should prove to be of intense interest.

If you worship nowhere else, a cordial welcome is extended you to make your church home with us.

Going Picnicing?

Don't let these fine days slip by without spending a day or two in the hills.

What to have for a picnic lunch? Well—it would be almost a shame to describe our lunch possibilities—'twould make your mouth water so. However, we are just curious to know whether or not you have tried that IXL Chili Meat. On bread this Chili Meat is grand, but on our Baronet Biscuit it's better still—a food for the gods.

And it might interest you to know that our California Cheese is now at its best, soft, mild, and creamy, much better than the ordinary sort.

But don't wait for a picnic before trying our different varieties of cookies. A little previous experimenting should be done to determine the kinds you like best.

Blaine's GENERAL MERCHANDISE

The Public is cordially invited to attend our Electric Range Cooking Demonstration which will begin Monday, May 8th, running several days.

A competent cook will be in charge.

JAPANESE BOY BLACKSMITHS

Busiest and Hardest Workers in World —Have No Thought of Play While Work Is Before Them.

In Japan boys are apprenticed to learn a trade much younger than boys in our country are, H. Croy writes in Northwestern Christian Advocate. Thousands are put in shops to learn to be blacksmiths when an American boy would still be in school. A Japanese father has so many boys that he has to put them out at some useful trade in order that they may bring in money to support the family. The boys have to work long hours; from seven in the morning until six in the evening.

They are faithful workers, the busiest you could find anywhere in the world. Even when a visitor comes and stands in the door to watch one of them work he will not look up from his work. He has no thought of play as long as he is at work; but when his hours are over no boy likes to get out and have a little fun more than he.

Japanese blacksmith shops open on to the street, so that the boy at his anvil sits within a few feet of the sidewalk. The shops are closed at night by putting boards in the front and barring them well. There are no doors with hinges. The hinge is unknown in Japan; what doors there are are made to slide back and forth.

There are many more blacksmith shops in Japan than in our country; there is one every few doors, and in walking along the street you may hear the clang-clang of hammers.

The boy wears a black apron with pockets; this he takes off when ready to start home in the evening. He wears wooden shoes—flat boards with straps over them to keep the shoes from falling off. His stockings are called tabis and come only to his ankle. And always there is a separate compartment for the big toe. An American boy would have a hard time in keeping a pair of Japanese shoes on, yet a Japanese boy can put up a mighty good footrace with nothing to hold his wooden shoes on except his big toe.

PROMOTION OF BOYS' CLUBS

Encouragement and Training of Youth Along Lines of Activities of Country Among Objects.

The principal objects to be attained through the promotion of boys' agricultural clubs, as defined by those in charge of this work, are:

1. To encourage and train boys along the lines of the activities of country life.
2. To put into practice the facts of scientific agriculture obtained from books, bulletins, etc.
3. To bring the school life of the boy into closer relationship to his home life.
4. To assist in the development of the spirit of co-operation in the family and in the community.
5. To dignify and magnify the vocation of the farmer by demonstrating the returns which may be secured from farming when it is properly conducted.
6. To enlarge the vision of the boy and to give him definite purposes at an important period in his life.
7. To furnish to the aggressive, progressive rural schoolteacher an opportunity to vitalize the work of the school by correlating the teaching of agriculture with actual practice.

The aim of the boys' club work is the same as that among men—viz, to secure the adoption of better methods of farming and greater yields at less cost. Many of the boys in the clubs who begin to study agriculture in this way will continue the study in the agricultural colleges; others will continue such effort on their farms, and all of them will make more useful and more efficient citizens.

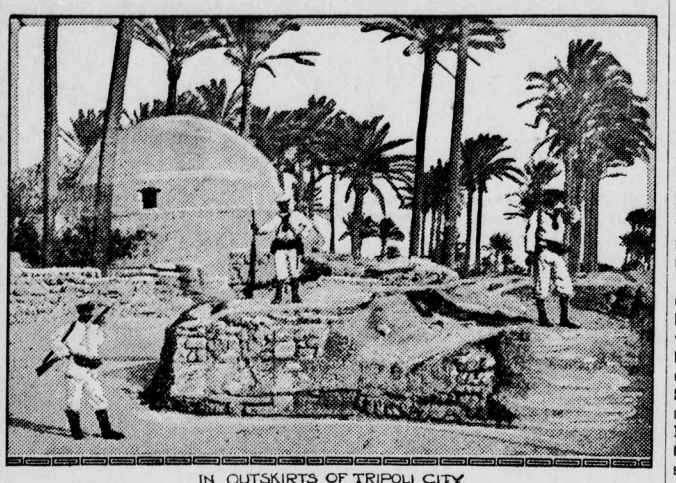
TRIPOLI IS FLOURISHING



IN OUTSKIRTS OF TRIPOLI CITY

TRIPOLI, the highly-inflammable land of Arab and Berber, has exchanged its peace-time industries for the industry of war, and according to a statement prepared by the National Geographic society, the newer industry adds little to the normal hazard of Tripolitan life.

Danger is the daily bread and meat of the dweller in Tripoli, and, in this country flecked with occasional oases and fringed with narrow strips of coastal vegetation, even the principal native pursuits for wealth and happiness are accompanied by hidden terror and grave risk. The principal sources of income to Tripolitans are those of sponge gathering, of esparto picking and of carrying on the trans-saharan caravan trade.

Whether the native son seeks to make his "pile" searching the slimy bottom of the Mediterranean for sponges, or gathering esparto grass in the morning mists of the desert, or following the caravan of a thousand camels back from the coast through 1,500 miles of Saharan desert to the distant Sudan, he takes not only his labor and capital for profit but also his health and life. More often than not he reaps disability or death as his reward.

Perils of Sponge Gatherers.

The wild seas that now and again boil over the northern coast of Africa are the smallest part of the sponge diver's hazard. Paralysis is always just ahead of this venturesome laborer who, day by day making foolhardy rapid ascents from the sea bed under press of keen competition, sooner or later experiences the return to shipboard in terrific dizziness, which forms the usual prelude to partial or complete paralysis. Strange as it may seem, many partially-paralyzed divers are able to continue their calling, and the unfitted, helpless cripple in the upper air feels normal circulation return to arms and legs when lowered into the sea on the sponge grounds. And the Arab divers of Tripoli, believing the disease indispensable to the vocation, and inured to hazard in their peculiar fatherland, dive phlegmatically through a few fat seasons until crippled or killed by their chosen trade.

Back in the plateau lands of the Sahara, behind the coastal greens in the silent, treeless, untenanted desert wastes, where the alluring mystery of the desert broods under the blighting heat of day and beckons in fanciful shapes over the dunes at night, stretch vast fields of wiry esparto grass, from which paper is manufactured in great mills in England. In these fields, working for the starvation wage of twenty cents a day or less, picking the grass and tying it in large bales to be loaded on camel trains for Tripoli City, the port of Tripolitania, is another corps of workers who adventure their safety in their work.

Picking the Esparto Grass.

Day begins for the esparto picker in the moonlight of early morning. In the chill of desert morning the picker leaves his nearby shack for the field, and begins his rapid task of breaking the longest wiry blades, leg high, from the most matured clump. And in the heart of these clumps ever and again lurks his danger in the form of his arch enemy, the deadly viper. In the clumps, also, are hidden the venomous North African rock scorpions, whose stings now and again prove fatal. It is the poisonous vipers, however, that make the work of esparto picking a sporting game with death.

Of the $2,000,000 of export trade enjoyed by Tripoli before the war, one-fifth of it was produced by the sponge divers, more than one-third of it by the esparto pickers and considerably more than one-sixth was brought over the wide, treacherous desert from the Sudan. Many caravans, some of a few and some of thousand camels, fitted out in Tripoli, undertook the danger-fraught journeys to the great marts of Sudanese trade—Timbuktu Kano, Kanen, Kuka, Bornu and Wadi. These journeys sometimes lasted two years around, and brought their undertakers into every species of danger that the desert affords. Robbers infest all the lanes across the desert, and, besides these, all the inner desert lies subject to the vengeful caprice of the masked Tuaregs, the strange people who are at war with all who cross their paths and do not pay a sufficient tribute.

The bones of the camels and men of a myriad of caravans of the past bleach along the desert trails, caravans that mostly came to harm at the hands of marauders; but there are some among them destroyed by thirst, by the sand storm or by the water of wells poisoned in inter-tribal wars. Of all three risky Tripolitan trades, the caravan trade is the most risky; and the old caravan men will find little in the newer industry of war for which their peace-time labors have not fully prepared them.

HELD ACT WAS JUSTIFIED

Judge Put Himself in the Prisoner's Position and Felt He Would Have Also Slain.

If there was one thing Ossup Mango was partial to, it was a good moving picture. So he settled down in an aisle seat with a sigh of expectation as the eighty-seventh episode of "The Hazards of Hannah" began on the screen.

Just as the note explaining the villain's motive was flashed on, a stout man with all his hair in his whiskers wedged himself in front of Ossup on his way to an inside seat.

"Pshaw, I missed the note!" thought Ossup. "Ah! He's going to blow up the bridge!"

Half a second before the dynamite went off, a thin woman with three babies in her arms got in front of him on her way in.

"And I love explosions, too!" muttered Ossup. But a few minutes later he brightened, for the aeroplane chase started.

All during the chase Ossup was gazing at the back of a fireman who had got wedged between Ossup's knees and the seat in front.

"I know!" thought Ossup. "I'll wait for the second show and see the parts these people have made me miss!" And he did, and during the note scene the thin woman stood in front of him on her way out, the fireman blocked the bridge explosion and the stout man hid the aeroplane chase.

It was then that Ossup Mango killed the two ushers who came down to chide him for complaining aloud. But later, the judge who tried him, being a movie fan himself, discharged him with words of commendation.—Indianapolis Star.

New War Game.

Playing war got three small boys into the Columbus (Ind.) city court. They had been reading the newspapers. They knew eggs were cheaper and also about the latest things in gas bombs. They armed themselves with eggs, playing that they were hand bombs, then lay in ambush to await the coming of the enemy. Just any sort of an enemy would satisfy them. John J. Hosea, manager of the Citizens Telephone company in Columbus, happened to come along with his newly-washed touring car. Clarence Kepley, a friend, was riding with him. The boys decided the car was a battleship or a Taube or something like that, and they opened fire. Eggs spattered the sides of the car. Kepley jumped out of the machine and gave chase. He captured one boy, who confessed and gave the names of his confederates. They were loaded in the car and taken to the city court, where Mayor Volland lectured them.

The Final Test.

"Can you tell me whether or not our navy is a good one?" asked the anxious citizen.

"Not yet," replied the sarcastic man. "There is such a hopeless difference of opinion regarding our navy that I am going to reserve my own opinion until it goes out and tackles a hostile fleet."

Hits American Trade.

Chinese are becoming so adept in the manufacture of biscuit and crackers that the Hongkong product is beginning to compete with the imported articles, having already worsted competition from Shanghai. This will affect the United States, from which the major portion of biscuit, crackers and cakes for China have been imported.

Uncanny Knowledge.

The Charlotte Observer says that "there hasn't been a red petticoat in North Carolina since the big sleet." That's entirely too much for any one editor to know.—Nashville Tennessean.

EXACT TO THE INCH

REMARKABLE INSTANCE OF ACCURATE SURVEYING.

Fact That "Monnyment" Was a Grindstone Had Been Overlooked and Gave Paul Bunyan Some Uneasy Moments.

A man named Paul Bunyan, who worked as county surveyor in Kansas, says the Engineering News, had some reputation in his profession. This is an account of a job he did for Silas Emery. Silas himself told the story to a party of Rock Island engineers who had taken refuge in his tool shed from one of the justly famous summer showers of the Sunflower state.

"I hired Paul," said Silas, "to run out my north line because my neighbor was aimin' to string a fence on what I knowed was my land. They had been a stone set twenty rod no'theast of my cow barn when the Widder Smith owned the layout, but seemed as if I couldn't rightly locate it. But Paul, he had the gov'ment notes for the whole county and the one west, so I knowed he could fix me up proper.

"Well, him and his long-laigged boys come out one mornin' at sunup and set out to find a monnyment to start out from, but they didn't find none till they come to the second range line east; it was a buffalo horn set seven inches down in gravel at the aidge of a crick, as the notes called for, so Paul he felt safe to start, and they lit out. They'd chain out eighty rod after the compass was set level and the proper declination set off, and then Paul would put up his inst'ment and go whar the boys had got to and start 'em off agin. And bein' right pert steppers, they seeveyed them seven miles in some two hours, and come to whar my corner was supposed to be at. I recollect Paul was lookin' mighty cocky when he come up to whar the last pin was stickin' in the ground.

"'Thar she be,' he sings out, 'jest six inches underground, and if you'll shove down on that thar pin you can find her yourself!'

"Wal, I goes over and shoves her in clean up to the red flannel, but nary stone did I tetch.

"Now Paul havin' the name he had for doing tiptop work I felt right disappointed thinkin' of him a-missin' that stone, and I reckon I showed my feelin's some, too. Paul wasn't lookin' cocky no more, neither. Never did I see a feller more put out. He reads all his gov'ment notes over time and agin, and him and the boys they puts down a whole raft of figgers and takes turns a-addin' them up.

"Then Paul gits up and takes their sightin' pole and rams her down whar the pin was settin'. Full two foot he druv that thar pole down 'fore he give it up as a bad job, and set down and went to pawin' over that old yaller notebook agin. 'Fore he set down, though, he allowed as how he'd give up and take to ranchin'.

"Finally I heered him snickerin' and I looked over to whar he was, and thar he set grinnin' fit to kill. 'Come here, Si,' sez he, 'and read the discription of this here monnyment.' Seems he had overlooked readin' that thar discription all this time 'cause of it bein' over on the right-hand page with figgerin' all round and runnin' into it. But thar it was, writ plain enough for anybody once you noticed it. 'For the no'thest corner of section 14, havin' run out of buffalo horns, I set an old grindstone purloined from the Widder Smith's shed, six inches below the surface of the ground.'

"Yep, the pole Paul had shoved down two foot was stickin' plumb through the hole in that grindstone!"

Gives Weed-Pulling Party.

A fad that is likely to meet with approval, especially by the City Beautiful club, was launched at Pasadena, Cal., when Mrs. P. N. Hanson of Parkwood boulevard entertained with a "weed-pulling" party.

With a lawn knee-deep in clover, dandelions and dozens of other kinds of weeds, Mrs. Hanson decided to get rid of them with one fell swoop, but the only way to do so was to have a party and show her guests how much fun it was to pull weeds.

So more than a dozen neighbors were turned loose in a weedy lawn, and after they had pulled up the last parasite they were rewarded for their labor with a delicious hot lunch. The other guests plan to return the favor by giving weed-pulling parties also.

Lies Cost Dollar a Word.

Flirting with the truth cost two prisoners at Atlantic City $1 a word when they were asked to plead to a charge of disorderly conduct in recorder's court. Al Russell was discovered pummeling Julia Hill on Rosemont avenue early in the morning, and both were taken in custody by Patrolman "Spike" Turner. After he had told his story they were given a chance to enter their defense.

"I'm not guilty at all," stoutly asserted Russell.

"No, sir; I'm not, either," chimed in Julia.

"A dollar a word," said Recorder Gaskill, and both were led below.

Sweden's Stock Exchange.

The present membership of the stock exchange in Sweden consists of sixteen banks, eight banking firms or free brokers, and five brokers in the ordinary sense of the term. Substantial stock exchange buildings have been erected in both Stockholm and Gothenburg. The annual volume of business amounts to about $100,000,000.

BELLA'S CARELESSNESS.

"I don't want to take him out this morning," said Bella. "I want to go skating with the other girls; they don't have to take care of babies."

"Perhaps they haven't any little brothers to care for," said her mother; "you can skate this afternoon, but I want you to take brother out this morning so I can get my baking done."

Bella pouted, but she knew she must obey her mother, and when a few minutes later her mother put the baby in his carriage she wheeled him down the street. "Come along to the pond," said one of Bella's playmates; "you can watch us skate away."

"Take this carriage a minute," said Bella. "I want to get something in the house."

Bella ran back, and when she returned she had something under her coat which she slipped into the carraige under the baby's feet.

"I don't see why I cannot skate and take care of him, too," she said. "Mother was upstairs, so I got my skates from the back hall; what she does not know won't hurt her, and I can have some fun skating."

"That is so," said the playmate, and off they hurried to the pond.

The baby was delighted to be wheeled to the pond among the skaters, and he crowed and screamed as the carriage glided over the smooth ice.

"Now I Can Have Some Fun Skating."

By and by he fell asleep, and Bella wheeled the carriage off the pond and placed it by a fence by some bushes.

"He will be all right there," she said, "and now I can have some fun skating."

So the baby slept and Bella skated, and after awhile it was time to go home, and no one thought of the baby.

Bella took off her skates and ran with the others across the lots to the road that led to the village.

Just as she entered the yard she thought of the baby; her mother saw her and ran to the door; but Bella did not stop; she ran down the street to the road that led to the pond. She ran on and on across the lot to the fence where she had left the carriage, but the baby and carriage had disappeared.

Bella looked all around, but there was no carriage to be seen, then she thought of the gypsies that were camped at the other side of the village and began to cry; what if they had stolen her baby brother and she would never see him again.

There was nothing to do but go home and tell her mother, and Bella went with a sad heart and hurrying feet, crying as though her heart would break.

She ran into the house, and there sat her mother with the baby held tight in her arms.

Bella ran up to him, but her mother pushed her away. "No, you do not love him!" she said. "I shall never let you take him out again, and as you do not love him, I do not want you to hold him or kiss him until you do."

Bella sobbed and begged to be allowed to kiss the baby, but her mother said no; she did not love her little brother enough to take good care of him, and she could not touch him. "Besides that, you deceived me," said her mother. "I did not tell you you could not take your skates, but you knew I wanted you to take care of the baby, and you deceived me, besides risking the life of your brother.

"If Mr. Bennett had not been crossing the lot and heard the baby crying no knowing what would have happened, for he was hanging over the side of his carriage, and Mr. Bennett saw him just in time to save him from falling."

Bella was very much ashamed, as well as frightened, but it was a long time before her mother would trust the baby with her again.

Bella never forgot her fright and her love for her brother could never be doubted, when her mother, after a while, let Bella kiss him, and she never had to be asked to take care of the baby.

DEMAND FOR LITTLE CAVIES

Wanted for Use in Laboratory Work—Philadelphia Uses on Average 2,000 Every Week.

Boys often indulge in raising pigeons or rabbits for sale, but did you ever try guinea pigs, boys? There is a ready sale for the little cavies, as they are called. The demand is now so great for these that the supply is short of the demand. Cavies are used in laboratory work. One of these in Philadelphia uses on an average of 2,000 of these cavies a week, and tries to keep a dozen times that many thousand on hand. About that city are many people breeding guinea pigs for sale.

Germany used to supply the experiment market with these. There are guides to the raising of guinea pigs advertised. The price runs from 35 to more than 80 cents apiece, according to the size. Some sell as low as five ounces in weight and some as high as twelve or fourteen ounces.

GAME IS MOST INTERESTING

"My Lady Wants Her Whole Toilette" Causes Players to Make Wild Scramble for Seats.

In this game the players are all seated in a ring, and each takes for a name some article of toilette, such as brush, glove, or something of the kind. One of their number stands in the center of the room and twists a small tray or bread-board quickly round, at the same time calling out the name of one of the articles. She must run forward quickly and catch the tray before it falls. If she fails to do this she goes back to her seat, but if she catches it she takes the place of the turner.

Sometimes the cry is "My lady wants her whole toilette," and at these words everyone jumps up and makes a rush for the chairs, including the turner, and the one left without a seat must take her place in the center, and the game then goes on as before.

OBTAIN TOP MARKET PRICES

Pig-Club Members Make Their Hog Feeding a Business Enterprise, and Not a Venture.

It is the aim of every live-stock farmer to have the buyer say to them, "The top o' the market to you." Experienced feeders achieve it, but rarely beginners.

Pig-club members have topped the market on the first hogs they have raised. These members followed the instructions given them by the pig-club agent stationed in their state. They fed balanced rations, kept the hogs free from lice and worms, and made their hog feeding a business enterprise, and not a venture.

In Oklahoma 23 boys and 1 girl sold their pigs to the two Oklahoma City packing houses at top prices, going 35 cents above the top of the market for the day. These hogs averaged 10 months of age and 344 pounds in weight. Eleven of them were judged as perfect market type by the buyers, and only one scored below 90. The average dress out was 84 per cent unchilled.

The champion hog from Kingfisher county weighed 1,440 pounds on the hoof and dressed out 87 per cent unchilled. This eleven-months-old barrow was on alfalfa pasture the first four months of his life, and then was fed tankage, corn, kitchen wastes, shorts, and alfalfa the next seven months. He cost 6 cents per pound to produce, including purchase price, feed, and labor, and give the boy a profit of $8.90 in addition to the prizes won.

In Kentucky 15 pig-club boys, with hogs averaging a little over 200 pounds, topped the Louisville market for the day by 25 cents a hundredweight.

All Grandmothers Great.

Robins Got Drunk.

"My father, Doctor Stevenson, was the first president of the Indiana state board of agriculture," said H. F. Stevenson, attorney, "and Henry Ward Beecher was the first treasurer. Our family lived in Putnam county, and father was kindly considerate of bird life. One January, which had a warm spell, father set me at work sorting apples, picking out the rotten ones, which I spread over a piece of ground as a fertilizer. A great flock of robins came down on those rotting apples as to a great feast. They were undergoing the alcoholic change, and the birds got drunk. There was a big basketful of helpless drunkards, and the weather was turning cold. 'Henry,' said father, 'you gather up those robins and bring them in to a warm place. When they sober up you can let them go again, and they'll probably make their way South. It is unnecessary to say that his orders were obeyed."—Indianapolis Star.

ROBSON'S JOKE WAS FAILURE

Reason He Was Like Donkey Was Because He Was Born So, Was Wife's Startling Reply.

"Robson, do you know why you are like a donkey?"

"Like a donkey?" echoed Robson, opening his eyes wide. "I don't."

"Because your better half is stubbornness itself."

The jest pleased Robson immensely, for he at once saw the opportunity of a glorious dig at his wife. So when he got home he said:

"Mrs. Robson, do you know why I am like a donkey?"

He waited a moment, expecting his wife to give it up. But she didn't. She looked at him somewhat pityingly, as she answered: "I suppose it's because you were born so."

The Opportune Moment.

"Do you think your father will object to my marrying you?"

"I think not. But don't ask him until after the first of the month."

"Why not?"

"Then he'll have all the bills in for my latest hats and dresses and he'll be glad to give me away."

"I don't see Sim Flubdud any more at the grocery lyceum."

"Sim sorter lost caste. He was sitting on a cracker barrel arguing that life wasn't worth living. A lamp exploded."

"Well?"

"Sim was the first man out."

A Smart Lad.

"This peace enthusiast says that when you take a fork in your hand you are preparing to attack an oyster or a beefsteak."

"Good stuff," declared the other kid "I'll pull it on her the next time she jumps on me for eating with my fingers."

In Doubt.

Lady (compassionately) — There after four hours a miserable little fish is struggling on the hook. Oh, such cruel sport!

Fisherman—Are you pitying the fish are you pitying the worm, or are you pitying me?—Fliegende Blaetter (Munich).

Two Views.

Jason—According to a Paris physician, premature baldness is due to some trouble with the teeth.

Egbert—Think, perhaps, it's the other way 'round, because a man usually loses his hair before he does his teeth.

Nothing Serious.

"Hubby, the playground inspector says that our little Ingomar doesn't know how to play rationally."

"Let him play irrationally, then. I did it when I was a kid, and I can't say that I have gotten over the habit yet."

CALOMEL MAKES YOU SICK, UGH!

"Dodson's Liver Tone" better than calomel and can not salivate.

Calomel loses you a day! You know what calomel is. It's mercury; quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

When you feel bilious, sluggish, constipated and all knocked out and believe you need a dose of dangerous calomel just remember that your druggist sells for 50 cents a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone, which is entirely vegetable and pleasant to take and is a perfect substitute for calomel. It is guaranteed to start your liver without stirring you up inside, and can not salivate.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and doesn't gripe.—Adv.

Indoor Constitutional.

Augustus O. Stanley, Kentucky's new governor, who has mounted the water wagon, announced recently that during his four-year term not a drop of intoxicating drink will be allowed in the state house.

"The campaign that I propose to wage against alcohol," said Governor Stanley, "is to be a thorough and honest campaign. There is too much hypocrisy among drinkers. Here is a typical instance:

"'I sat one evening on a trolley car beside two women who were returning together from an afternoon's shopping tour.

"'My husband goes out every evening for a little constitutional,' one of the women said. Then she inquired: 'Does yours?'

"'No,' replied the other. 'No; my husband always keeps it in the house.'"—Washington Star.

His Idea of It.

"Do you subscribe to the theory that honesty is the best policy?" asked the casual conversationalist.

"Why, sure," answered his fellow passenger on a trolley car. "Why do you ask?"

"I noticed that you gave the conductor a plugged nickel and he handed it back to you."

"Ahem! Well, I try to subjugate my finer feelings when dealing with a soulless corporation."

AFTER SIX YEARS OF SUFFERING

Woman Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Columbus, Ohio.—"I had almost given up. I had been sick for six years with female troubles and nervousness. I had a pain in my right side and could not eat anything without hurting my stomach. I could not drink cold water at all nor eat any kind of raw fruit, nor fresh meat nor chicken. From 178 pounds I went to 118 and would get so weak at times that I fell over. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and ten days later I could eat and it did not hurt my stomach. I have taken the medicine ever since and I feel like a new woman. I now weigh 127 pounds so you can see what it has done for me already. My husband says he knows your medicine has saved my life."—Mrs. J. S. BARLOW, 1624 South 4th St., Columbus, Ohio.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound contains just the virtues of roots and herbs needed to restore health and strength to the weakened organs of the body. That is why Mrs. Barlow, a chronic invalid, recovered so completely.

It pays for women suffering from any female ailments to insist upon having Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

START FIERCE FIRE

How German Incendiary Bombs Are Constructed.

Intended to Generate Sudden and Intense Heat at the Point Where They Are Dropped—Noxious Gas Also Liberated.

The incendiary bombs which have been dropped from Zeppelins upon parts of France and England are among the most ingenious and perfectly devised destructive contrivances that the war has brought out.

In the scores that have been dropped from Germany's gigantic airships only one so far has failed to explode and this has been seized upon eagerly by the English war officials for examination.

It differs from an ordinary explosive bomb inasmuch as it is intended not to scatter fragments over a wide area, but to produce sudden and intense heat at a given point, thus starting a fierce conflagration.

The bomb, as a rule, is conical, of ten-inch diameter at the base, corded round, and has a metal handle at the apex. The base is a flat cup, on to which a pierced metal funnel is fitted, having the ignition device and handle fitted at the top. The funnel is generally filled with thermit, which upon ignition generates intense heat, and by the time of the concussion has taken the form of molten metal of the extraordinarily high temperature of over 5,000 degrees Fahrenheit.

The molten metal is spread by the concussion. Outside the funnel is a padding of a highly-inflammable or resinous material bound on with an inflammable form of rope. The resinous material creates a pungent smoke.

There is generally some melted white phosphorus in the bottom of the cup, which develops nauseous fumes. In some cases celluloid chippings are added, and occasionally a small quantity of petrol.

General Merritt's Career.

General Wesley Merritt was born in New York city in 1836 and died in 1910. He was graduated from West Point in 1860 and in 1861 assigned to a cavalry regiment. In 1862 he acted as aid to General Cooke. In 1863 he participated in Stoneman's famous raid toward Richmond. In the battle of Gettysburg and in the Richmond campaign of April-August, 1864, he commanded a reserve cavalry brigade, and in the Shenandoah valley campaign and the final Richmond campaign he commanded a cavalry division. By the end of the war he had been made major general of volunteers and brevet major general in the regular army. In 1876 he served in the Indian campaigns in Wyoming and Dakota. From 1882 to 1887 he was superintendent of the United States Military academy. In 1887 he was made brigadier general, in 1895 major general. In 1897-98 he commanded the department of the East of the United States army, and he was in command of the United States forces in the Philippines in 1898. He was one of the United States peace commissioners to Paris, and after that was again commander of the department of the East until he retired from the service June 16, 1900. He was the son of John W. and Julia Anne Merritt.

Savings Banked in Teapots.

A considerable amount of gold is being hoarded by people who bank their incomes and business takings and who are anxious to be ready to meet emergency demands; but it is probable that a much larger quantity is stored up in rural parishes throughout the country.

The money, which is added to from time to time, lies unproductive in the house, concealed in wooden boxes under the bed, teapots, vases, or in tin boxes. It was stated recently in a local paper in Devonshire that persons who went about the country districts knew instances of from $500 to $4,000 being kept in bedrooms in lonely farm houses, the owners of these dead reserves being in no way tempted by 5 per cent bonds. It has, in fact, been the custom in many families for the family fortune, such as it is, to be handed to the heirs in cash.

In certain rustic minds there seems to be not only a distrust of the bank and post office, but an ineradicable objection to outside persons knowing the state of their finances. It is not yet realized that a practice which may be comparatively innocuous in time of peace is positively harmful in time of war.—London Times.

Frame of Mind.

"Now, why deliberately irritate the cook, my dear?"

"It is necessary, John. She has to whip some cream."

"What of that?"

"She will make a much better job of it if she is mad."

Caruso's Grievance.

Pity the sorrows of Caruso! Many people think of him as the most enviable of mortals, who gets his $2,500 a night—or is it $2,500?—with the maximum of pleasure and the minimum of exertion. How different is the reality—as recently confided by the famous tenor to a sympathetic friend: "When I was unknown I sang like a bird, careless, without thought of nerves. But now my reputation is made my position is very different. Here I am today oppressed by a reputation which cannot increase, but which the least vocal mishap may compromise. My audiences, well disposed toward me as they are, have to pay such high prices to hear me that they imagine I am a unique singer who must give them unheard-of results. That is why I am often the unhappiest of men. I tell you frankly I was happier when I was earning ten francs a night. I spent seven francs, kept three, and knew that my reputation was not ruined if I happened to give a croak. Today—!" And the great singer finished the sentence with a groan. Yet how many self-sacrificing souls there are who would be only too glad to take up Caruso's burden!

An Easy Way to Get Rid of Ugly Pimples

Bathe your face for several minutes with resinol soap and hot water, then apply a little resinol ointment very gently. Let this stay on ten minutes, and wash off with resinol soap and more hot water, finishing with a dash of cold water to close the pores. Do this once or twice a day, and you will be astonished to find how quickly the healing resinol medication soothes and cleanses the pores, removes pimples and blackheads, and leaves the complexion clear and velvety.

Resinol ointment and resinol soap stop itching instanaly and speedily heal skin humors, sores, burns, wounds and chafing. Sold by all druggists.—Adv.

Near-East Railroads.

Our troops will not be enjoying much in the way of scenery on the railway up country from Saloniki, remarks the London Chronicle. "Whether one goes through Adrianople to Constantinople," says Sir Charles Eliot "or through Uskub to Saloniki, the sides of the railway look desolate and lifeless; hills overgrown with dwarf oak alternate with plains whose bareness is half covered with scrubby grass. There are few signs of cultivation, and fewer of human habitations. Oriental railways have a way of only skirting the edge of cities, and stations are sometimes several miles from the places whose names they bear. The deserted appearance of the land is intensified by the Turkish practice of constructing towns (such as Kumanovo and Chatalja) in depressions of the undulating plains, where they are invisible at a short distance."

Diet of Brain Workers Fixed.

Fish as a brain food is now regarded as merely a superstition by modern science, which puts the seal of approval on the food which nourishes the whole body with special reference to the nervous system.

Dr. George M. Beard says that brain power is largely an expression through the nerves of bodily vitality. In a recent treastise Doctor Beard points out that the diet of brain workers should be of large variety, delicately served, abundantly nutritious, and that fresh meat should be a prominent constituent.

In great crises, however, that call for unusual exertion, the stomach should be rested that the brain may work the harder, but the deficiency of nutrition ought always to be supplied in the first interval of repose.

Knew He Bought the Ring.

Here is a hard nut for some solon to crack. After the breaking of an engagement, can the young man take back the ring he gave the girl and be arrested for stealing it? He can, for that is what has happened to a Brooklyn youth. But whether he can be convicted of grand larceny is a question that is causing concern to several magistrates. The prisoner pleaded not guilty to the charge made by his former fiancee, and the case will require some deep thinking by the magistrates before they render a decision.

Hale and hearty, Miss Ruth Roberts of Folkestone, England, has reached the age of one hundred and three years. She is still able to do most of her own work. She suffers from slightly defective hearing, but maintains all her faculties, and walks about the town when the weather is suitable. Her father fought and was wounded at Waterloo.

Five Birds to Every Man.

Do you know that there are about five birds to every human being in the United States?

This fact was ascertained recently by the government. The gigantic task of counting the number of birds in its borders was carried on by lovers of the feathered tribe all over the country, and it revealed the fact that there were about 250,000 pairs of birds, or about a pair to the acre.

Each bird counted was responsible for an area of land not less than forty acres, and not more than eighty acres in extent, and the census only included the birds nesting in that area.

But it continues: "Out of a warm room into a cold car—for a bitterly cold drive to school—downtown—or to bring dad home from the office—the worst thing in the world for youngsters—or anyone else." And it tells of the virtues of a heater for motor cars. Can there be parents cruel enough to send their children to school in a cold motor car? Have we no laws? We would like to find someone to take this account over rather than to ship it back to San Francisco. Would be very glad to have the instrument go into any responsible party's home on approval. Could arrange lowest terms on the balance due on this instrument. This is an opportunity to get an instrument at lower than half it's regular selling price. The instrument is practically new, as it has only been out 4½ months and had the very best of care. Kindly send letter to Mr. George, Auditor, H. P. Co., 37 Stockton St., San Francisco.

Letter from Madeira

Madeira, Dec. 28,
Bella Vista Hotel.

Dear Everybody,—

It is the unexpected which always happens on this trip, so here we are, spending almost a week in Madeira instead of the few hours we had planned. It is the war again which has upset our plans. It seems our boat, "The Saxon", was needed for war purposes and so was held over for a week, and now also on account of the war, boats will go to South Africa every two weeks instead of every week as heretofore.

Our week is almost up. The Saxon is expected early tomorrow. My things are all packed and I am snatching a few moments in which to catch up in my journal, as this seems to be.

This is a beautiful spot to wait in. As I look out of my window where I am sitting great mountains tower up toward the sky and soft clouds are floating down their sides. On a hill in the foreground, so close I could almost put my hand on it, is a magnificent old fort. The sides of the mountain are all terraced and gay with pretty houses and beautiful gardens. The Bougainvillaea is in its glory now and the beautiful "Shower of Fire" vine is ablaze here and there in spots all over the mountain sides.

Our hotel is well named "Bella Vista". The view which we get from the verandah here is certainly one of the most magnificent I have ever seen. I hardly see how it could be finer. The wide stretch of old ocean on one side and these mountains towering up to a height of 6059 feet seem to rise right out of the water. Mr. Cowles and Fredererick have today been up the mountain on the incline cog railway. They came down in a wicker-work sled guided by men who make it simply fly down over the closely laid cobble stones. This sled-ride down the mountain is the most popular Madeira stunt, indulged in by visitors here.

Next to that is the ride in the ox "carro" or carriage. We all came up from the landing in two of these "carros", wicker work carriages on wooden runners drawn by two oxen over the firmly set cobble stones. They certainly are a novelty and heaps of fun. A little boy runs in front of the oxen to guide them and they follow him as meekly as "Mary's little lamb" did, at a good pace too. A big man runs beside each pair of oxen and whips them and pokes them by turns and yells at them every minute. The driver has to keep his runners greased too. This he did by laying a well-greased piece of sacking under the runners every few minutes.

The whole town is paved with cobble stones, roads and sidewalks, and the stones are worn smooth and slimy by constant traffic. They are slippery, too, a little uncertain footing for the uninitiated, but Madeira wouldn't be Madeira without its shiny cobble stones and "carros".

I wonder if there is on the face of the earth a quainter, prettier town than this! Of course you all know that Madeira is an island owned by the Portugese. It it was discovered by them a few years before Columbus discovered America, and Columbus himself lived here for a time and married a daughter of the Governor of one of these islands.

There are now on this island 150,000 people and Funchal, the capital, has a population of about 30,000. They live mainly on what they make off of visitors. It is said that 1600 ships call here each year, and the shops all fly open the minute a boat casts anchor, be it at midnight, or on Sunday or any time. Wicker work chairs and beautiful embroideries are the chief industries. Cochineal used to be raised on adjoining islands and the entymologist who is one member of our party collected some cochineal insects off of a prickly pear leaf the other day and showed them to us.

He squashed one to show us the lovely stuff we color our cakes with! When collected for an industry it seems these insects are brushed off of the prickly pear leaves, dried and crushed into powder. This powder, preserved in alcohol, is the pink liquid stuff we put into our cake icing. I must say these old cochineal bugs looked to me for all the world like big fat South African ticks with ashes sprinkled on them. I am sure some of us are glad to know that chemical coloring matter is fast taking the place of cochineal in cookery.

The people are very poor and ignorant. Oh! the beggars at every turn. It is terrible. Literally the maimed, the halt and the blind, and such sad old faces, such rags, such wasted bodies. It is awful. To be in the midst of such scenes at Christmas time makes one realize more keenly than ever the contrast between our own great and glorious country and other lands like these. It is surely up to us in America to share with others a little of the much we have.

I did see one Christmas tree in a shop window, an artificial one with a little tinsel and a few trinkets on it. The chief celebration of Christmas here seems to come on the day before. Then the whole countryside for miles around came pouring into the town. The streets and the market were thronged. Beggars, too, were more numerous than usual.

Won in a Walk

The local Athletics won an easy game against the Normals Saturday by a score of 9-0. Pat Kennedy in the box did some great work and the locals showed good form at times when most needed.

In the sixth inning Kirby and Luckensmeyer of the Normals collided while running for a high foul, both boys receiving bad cuts where their heads hit. They were rushed to Dr. Merrill's office where the gashes were stitched and later the boys were taken to town where they have been steadily improving. Ed. Kennedy and Oliver of the locals hit for home runs. Rather expensive, too. The same teams will play at Campbell tomorrow afternoon. Don't miss it.

Wednesday the Athletics played the Santa Clara U team one of the best games of the season, losing 2 to 3. The re-arrangement of the infield by Manager Bradford worked a big improvement. P. Kennedy on the mound pitched a great game getting the weak spots for 7 strike-outs, and Pierce at first is a bear, hugging everything in sight—Ludwig hit a two-bagger, the hit of the day. The boys are getting into their stride and the pace is great, with considerable pep. (Umpire Whitney. Time 1 hour 30 minutes.) These teams play at Santa Clara U Sunday afternoon.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Campbell held a very delightful meeting at the home of Mrs. Clara Gilman, on Wednesday, May 3d.

The "Echoes" from the annual county convention, just held at Los Gatos were both entertaining and instructive. The following ladies gave talks and papers. Mesdames Farley, Righter, Weeks, Winans, Powell, Preston and Whitman, also Miss Caldwell and Miss Engles. There were several selections of music, two charming solos by little Marild Powell with her mamma at the piano as accompanist. At the Memorial service tributes of love were given and flowers were placed for two members of Campbell union—Mrs. Lucy C. Bull and Mrs. Mary Cook. The following are a few of the many echoes given. "It means more to live in California during the next few months than to live for years in some other place,—IF we live up to our privileges here and now." "There is a sense of victory in the air as we work side by side with our brothers altho' we are somewhat afflicted with the bad citizenship of good people." There was much bright wholesome, sensible advice both on "Mother's Afternoon" and on "Father's Night". "Instead of admonitions, give the children stories, sugar-coated with high ideals". Bind their hearts with the golden chains of sympathy and love." On "Father's Night" one speaker said that when in later years, his wife asked him why he chose her out of all the girls, he replied, "Because you were always so chummy with your mother." "Father's day" is to be one of the Red Letter days on W. C. T. U. calendars.

May Party

Mrs. T. Mendel was hostess Wednesday afternoon at a delightful, informal at home.

The rooms were beautiful with an abundance of exquisite roses, and fragrant with the odor of sweet peas and carnations.

A short time was spent with fancy work which was followed by a humorous story, read by Mrs. Smith, that created much laughter.

A merry time resulted from the efforts of the ladies to finish the decorating of a "picture" May pole at which Mrs. E. Davidson proved most successful. The prizes were dainty May baskets containing pretty crochet work, done by the hostess.

After dainty refreshments were served, Mrs. Warren Shelly and Mrs. W. B. Kammerer favored the company with several songs. Everyone present enjoyed a most delightful afternoon.

Methodist Church Notes

Mrs. Ethel Davis will lead the League meeting Sunday evening.

The Centennial of the American Bible Society will be celebrated Sunday with special pulpit themes at both services.

The Epworth League will meet in business session at the close of the mid-week service Wednesday evening.

Saturday, May 13th, has been fixed as the date, and Congress Springs as the place, for the annual Sunday-school picnic. The committee in charge will probably arrange for a special car to take those without means of transportation. Let parents and friends of the children arrange to go with the school on this outing. Full announcement regarding arrangements will be made Sunday.

The attendance for the day last Sunday, Boys' Day was, 347. Now watch Girls' Day, May 14th.

Some uncivilized pagan stole the thumb tacks from the church bulletin board Sunday night; and still some people think the preaching of the gospel in this highly developed community a matter of little importance.

High School Notes

On Mayday the Senior Class went on a hiking and fishing trip to Wrights. The members started at various times, most of the boys going Sunday afternoon to be "on deck" for the fish Monday morning. The others went up by train Monday morning. The class all congregated above Wrights for their noonday meal, and a fine meal it was, too. In addition to the usual picnic dinner, the picnickers barbecued steak, which was "almost but not quite" as good as fish.

The party spent the afternoon hiking above Wrights and walked down to Alma, taking the train home from there. Miss Wood, their class teacher, was the chaperon.

The tercentenary celebration of the death of Shakespeare will be given at the High School on the evening of May 12th. The main part of the evening's entertainment will be a play, the scene of which is laid in the Mermaid inn, a famous London tavern of Shakespeare's day. Here Sir Walter Raleigh, Burbidge, Ben Jonson, Kit Marlowe, and other literary celebrities gather to discuss the May fete which Queen Elizabeth has asked Shakespeare to give. Shakespeare brings a company of players to the inn to rehearse some scenes from his plays, which he intends to present at the fete. They play four scenes, one from Twelfth Night, two from Midsummer's Night Dream, and one from The Merchant of Venice.

The orchestra will play two numbers, and the Glee Club will sing three of Shakespeare's songs. Besides this, the High School phonograph will play three or four records of Shakespeare's songs.

Every one is welcome, and no admission will be charged.

A track meet was held at the High School Wednesday afternoon, in which the Juniors opposed the rest of the school. The final score was 61 to 53 in favor of the Juniors.

After much deliberation, the High School has finally decided to purchase a Sonora phonograph. They have had several tryouts with nine different machines, and finally decided that the Sonora was the most satisfactory. At the first tryout the judges were: Mrs. F. L. Loomis, Mr. Halamicek, Miss Ruth Lloyd, Mrs. George Robson, Mr. Homer Pugh, Miss Fern Brundage, Miss Arnott, and Mr. Cramer, Miss Wood and Miss Johnson of the High School faculty. The faculty were the judges at the final tryout.

NOTICE-School Bond Election Notice

Notice is hereby given to the electors of Campbell School District, in the County of Santa Clara, and State of California, that, in accordance with the provisions of the Political Code of the State of California, as set forth in Section 1880, to and including Section 1888 of said Code, an election will be held on the 20th day of May, A.D. 1916, at the Public School House in said Campbell School District, at which time will be submitted to the electors of said District the question of issuing the bonds of the District and selling the same, for the purpose of raising money for building a school building, for supplying said building with furniture and necessary apparatus and for improving the school grounds.

The polls will be opened and the election held at the school house in said School District, on the 20th day of May, 1916, and the polls will be open from 8 o'clock A. There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.
